dishes in of gold and silver ; in the procession to the Cathedral the horses wore Kiddles adorned with gold and bridles of silver and gold; at the altar Cardinal ContI, n nephew of the Pope, anointed Roger, and Rolwrt of Capua as the first vassal of the new realm placed the erown upon his head.[1]

It was too ratty a triumph, and already it apjKwed that litter and Anadetxus would soon have to fight tlespmitHy, the one for his new crown, the other for his* Papal tiara. In that
